Violence, Memory and Cinema. Comparative Perspectives: Latin America and the Middle East

ANSO041 - Autumn - 6 ECTS
Wednesday 16:15 – 18:00 (S5)

Course Description

The seminar aims at investigating the role of cinema in (re)shaping the collective memories of societies living in contexts of armed conflict, post civil war or political transition from dictatorship. We will focus in particular on the role of the different generations of film directors - considered as both artists and social actors - in these processes; on the effects of censorship (the State-sponsored one, the forms of self-censorship and its indirect forms through distribution and production); and the way the cinematic productions have influenced or have been influenced by transitional justice.

The first part of the seminar will develop problematically the relationships between memory and history through present debates related to the visual arts and the politics of memorialization in Latin America and the Middle East. The seminar topic being at the crossroad of several disciplines, we will explore different anthropological, political and historical paradigms, including the contributions of film studies.

In the second part of the seminar we will study the specific topic of 'enforced disappearances', their representation through cinema and the contribution of fictions and documentaries in promoting national and international debates and in keeping alive the memory of the missing in Argentina, Chile and Lebanon in particular.

In parallel to the main seminar, some workshops will be organized for watching movies, with the presence of external guest lecturers.

Finally, the seminar is conceived within the larger framework of the contribution of arts to reconciliation and peace-building, a growing field of academic interest and policy investment.

In Beirut, between 1975 and 1990, there was a civil war, everybody wanted to exterminate everybody. Today, war is over. It stopped a day, like that, after having corrupted our lives. A HISTORY LESSON by H. Zaccak, 2009, 51mn. (Arabic subt. English)

Synopsis: Who are Lebanon's enemies? Who are its historical allies? And what is the most important date in the country's history? In A History Lesson, five ninth-grade students studying in schools throughout the country are all taught the same standardized history text, yet they seldom provide the same answers to these important questions. Spliced interviews intertwined with footage of the students in their homes combine to make the director's case—that the underlying problem is how history is taught in the country, or perhaps more accurately, how it is not taught. The history of Lebanon has been in arrested development since the country's independence.

CONDOR : LES AXES DU MAL de R. Vazquez, 2003, 86mn. (English)

Résumé : In the name of "the struggle against terrorism" a special operation code-named Condor was undertaken during the Seventies and Eighties in South America. This struggle, launched through Chile after the coup d'état on September 11, 1973 by Augusto Pinochet, targeted left-wing groups. Condor rapidly became a network linking South America's military dictators, propped up by the American State Department and the CIA. The film includes interviews with victims in search of 'truth' and Condor leaders.

THE OFFICIAL STORY by L. Puenzo, 1985, 104mn. (Espanol subt. English)

Synopsis : An Argentine teacher lives in blissful ignorance of the evils perpetrated by her country's government. Over time, however, her students' rejection of the "official" versions of their history leads her to question things herself. Suspecting that her adopted daughter may have been the child of a murdered political prisoner, she attempts to unearth the truth. But her investigation reveals levels of political corruption so abhorrent that the illusions of her past life are irrevocably shattered.

MONTONEROS. UNA HISTORIA de A. Di Tella, 2006, 89mn. (Espanol)

Synopsis : Siguiendo la historia de una ex militante guerrillera, de sus reflexiones y cuestionamientos sobre el activismo político en los 70, este documental reconstruye una historia de Montoneros. A través del relato de la mujer se conectan diversos testimonios, imágenes de archivo y documentos de época que, en su diseño de una trama de aquellos años, exponen sus contradicciones, presentan acontecimientos clave -como el secuestro y muerte de Aramburu, la masacre de Ezeiza y el golpe de Estado del 76- y trazan proyecciones hacia al presente.

EL PREMIO by P. Markovitch, 2011, 99mn. (Espanol – subt. English)

Synopsis : Under the cloud of a military dictatorship, a young mother and her daughter flee Buenos Aires for the seclusion of a ramshackle cottage along the windy dunes of an Argentine beach. As her mother listens for news from the radio with sad stoicism, restlessly curious seven-year-old Cecilia joins a nearby school overseen by a kindly teacher. A childhood idyll, however, soon becomes contaminated by the general political crisis, as the teacher recruits the class for a patriotic essay contest sponsored by the army—the very people that may have already disappeared Cecilia's father—in this superbly acted and engrossingly atmospheric drama about innocence in illicit times.

FIESTAPATRIA de L. Vera, 2007, 120 mn. (Espanol subt. English)

Synopsis : 'Fiestapatria' is a metaphor for the social and moral state of Chile, and provides provocative testimony of a period that ranges from the militar regime to the present day. The film makes use of a gallery of representative characters from Chilean society to tell the story of two families that get together in a country house to celebrate the National Holiday and the engagement of their children, Macarena and Álvaro. Just before the event comes to an eagerly-awaited happy end, young Macarena discovers the family's best kept secret.

THE JUDGE AND THE GENERAL by E. Farnsworth & P. Lanfranco, 2008, 83mn. (English subt. Espanol)

Synopsis : When in 1998 Chilean judge Juan Guzmán was assigned the first criminal cases against the country's ex-dictator, General Augusto Pinochet, no one expected much. Guzmán had supported Pinochet's 1973 coup — waged as an anti-Communist crusade — that left the democratically elected president, Salvador Allende, and thousands of others dead or "disappeared." The filmmakers trace the judge's descent into what he calls "the abyss," where he uncovers the past — including his own role in the tragedy.

PINOCHET ET SES TROIS GENERAUX de J.-M. Berzosa, 1977, 101mn. (Espanol / Français)

Résumé : En 1976, trois ans après le coup d'état armé contre le gouvernement d'Allende, José-Maria Bersoza rencontre le général Pinochet en voyage et lui propose un entretien filmé sur sa vie et sa pensée politique. Pinochet et trois de ses généraux confient leurs idées spontanément. Ils parlent tranquillement de leurs goûts artistiques, de leurs idées politiques, de leur vie de famille. De ces entretiens menés dans une apparente bonhomie ressort un portrait ironique et sans concessions des principaux dirigeants de la junte : leur goût de l'ordre, de l'efficacité, une sorte de «fascisme ordinaire». En contrepoint, les familles des victimes et des disparus témoignent d'une autre réalité.

CHOU SARR ? (What happened to Lebanon?) de Eid De Gaulle, 2009, 75mn. (Arabic subt. English)

Synopsis : As a child, the filmmaker survived a massacre in Edbel in northern Lebanon that killed a large part of his family, including his parents and one sister. Almost 30 years later, he leaves his home in Corsica and goes to Lebanon to ask his remaining relatives about the events of the time and the run-up to them. However, they do not all want to be confronted with the painful memories and many questions remain open. When the director visits his village to see his family home again he meets his mother's murderer. This is a personal story that could be transposed to many Lebanese families and questions the proximity of victims and perpetrators who have not been punished. The film was banned from screening in Lebanon by the censors.

WE WANT TO KNOW by C. Mansour, 2012, 42mn. (Arabic subt. English)

Synopsis : the documentary is the narration of journeys taken by Lebanese high school students across the memory of the war in Lebanon (1975-1990) through the eyes of their parents, grandparents, relatives, and neighbours. It is the uncovering of silences about what daily life was like during periods of war, bombing, curfews, and kidnappings, and what it was like living under the constant threat of death and loss. The documentary traces the stories of daily life during the country's violent civil war through the recollections of four middle-aged characters (Iman, Widad, Nadim, and Mona) who lived, lost, and struggled through it; a war that ended abruptly without addressing its causes, results, and consequences. An entire generation, now in their 40s and 50s had never spoken about the war to their children. For many, this was the first time the past is uncovered and shared.

INCENDIES de D. Villeneuve (d'après une pièce de W. Mouawad), 2010, 123mn. (Français)

Synopsis : A la lecture du testament de leur mère, Jeanne et Simon Marwan se voient remettre deux enveloppes : l'une destinée à un père qu'ils croyaient mort et l'autre à un frère dont ils ignoraient l'existence. Jeanne voit dans cet énigmatique legs la clé du silence de sa mère, enfermée dans un mutisme inexpliqué les dernières semaines précédant sa mort. Elle décide immédiatement de partir au Moyen Orient exhumer le passé de cette famille dont elle ne sait presque rien... Simon, lui, n'a que faire des caprices posthumes de cette mère qui s'est toujours montrée distante. Mais son amour pour sa sœur jumelle le poussera bientôt à rejoindre Jeanne et à sillonna avec elle le pays de leurs ancêtres sur la piste d'une mère bien loin de celle qu'ils ont connue.

NOSTALGIA DE LA LUZ de P. Guzman, 2011, 90mn. (Espanol subt. Français)

Synopsis : this is a film about the distance between the sky and the earth, between light and human beings and the mysterious comings and goings arising between them. At a height of 3,000 metres, astronomers from all over the world gather in the Atacama Desert to observe the stars of northern Chile. Here, the transparency of the sky means that you can see to the very limits of the universe. Below, the dryness of the ground keeps human remains intact forever: mummies, explorers, miners, Indians and the skeletons of the political prisoners of the dictatorship. While the astronomers seek extraterrestrial life, a group of women move stones: they're looking for their relatives...

MI VIDA CON CARLOS de G. Berger-Hertz, 2010, 80mn. (Espanol subt. Français)

Berger revisits the legacy of the man he never knew and the regime that devastated the country.

FERNANDO HA VUELTO de S. Caiozzi, 1998, 31mn. (Espanol subt. English) + interview of 2006 with the filmmaker (33mn.)

Synopsis : El documental narra el proceso a través del cual dos mujeres médicos forenses, encargadas de la Oficina de Identificación del Instituto Médico Legal de Santiago, logran determinar la identidad de cuerpos que se presume corresponden a prisioneros detenidos desaparecidos durante la dictadura militar de Augusto Pinochet (1973-1990). Las doctoras muestran la técnica utilizada para la identificación de un caso recientemente resuelto: los restos de un hombre que fueron encontrados, junto a muchos otros, en el Patio 29 del Cementerio General de Santiago en 1991. Los restos pertenecen a Fernando Olivares Mori, un chileno de 27 años de edad, funcionario de CELADE, organismo de las Naciones Unidas, desaparecido desde el 5 de Octubre de 1973. Las doctoras, después de cuatro años de trabajo logran establecer fehacientemente la identidad de Fernando y tras presentar los restos a su viuda, comunican en forma Oficial las causas de su muerte. A través de sus imágenes, el documental es testigo del impacto que el retorno de Fernando causa en su familia: su hijo, sus hermanos y su madre. Su testimonio ilustrará hasta qué punto el dolor humano carece al fin de color político.

HERE COMES THE RAIN de B. Hojeij, 2010, 96mn. (Arabic subt. English)

Synopsis : la fiction examine la situation des 'disparus' de la guerre civile lorsque l'un de ces derniers, Ramez, se retrouve libéré après 20 années de détention et projeté dans le monde actuel, avec toutes les conséquences et les bouleversements qu'implique 'l'après-retour'. En effet, la famille et le monde qu'il a quittés lors de son incarcération ont changé, évolué - d'où un décalage marqué entre certains souvenirs figés dans le temps que Ramez a conservés et la réalité, difficile à assumer pour ce dernier. Diminué physiquement et mentalement, il se retrouve face à sa femme qui a, tant bien que mal, élevé 20 ans durant leurs deux enfants. Des enfants qui ont entre-temps grandi et sont devenus en âge de poser des questions, notamment vis-à-vis du retour de ce père qu'ils ne connaissent pas. Le film s'intéresse également aux dommages irréparables provoqués par la guerre civile. Le personnage de Nayfeh Najjar, inspiré de la vraie histoire d'une journaliste d'As-Safir dont le fils a été kidnappé pendant la guerre, et celui de Zeinab, autre femme de disparu, fidèle à la mémoire de son mari, illustrent également les ravages causés par la guerre sur la vie des civils.

SLEEPLESS NIGHTS by E. Raheb, 2012, 128mn. (Arabic subt. English)

Synopsis: Two people marked by the civil war - a man and a woman, perpetrator and victim - form the two opposing poles of this highly-charged film: Assaad Chaftari, a former senior intelligence official of a right-wing Christian militia responsible for countless deaths, and Maryam Saiidi, the mother of a communist partisan who went missing in 1982 at the age of 15. Both have gone against the rule requiring silence on the war: In 2000, Chaftari publicly acknowledged his culpability and Saiidi speaks unflinchingly and loudly about the search for her son's whereabouts and her pain. The dauntless filmmaker arranges for the two to meet. The confrontation throws open the question of forgiveness and reconciliation. Apart from the individual aspect, light is also shed upon the social dimension: Scenes featuring Chaftari's wife and son, his parents, the "Red Bishop" Haddad, a British psychotherapist and her "Garden of Forgiveness," as well as Chaftari's former militia cohorts hunting rabbits, and a silent former communist commander give an overall impression of Lebanese society. This is a cinematic statement against state-sanctioned collective forgetfulness.

LOS RUBIOS by A. Carri y A. Couceyro, 2005, 89mn. (Espanol subt. English)

Sinopsis : La directora de cine Albertina Carri realiza una exploración sobre la memoria a partir de la ausencia de sus padres, secuestrados y desaparecidos durante la última dictadura. Combinando múltiples recursos, como textos leídos, carteles, el color y el blanco y negro, el fílmico y el video, entrevistas, muñecos Playmobil y una actriz como alter ego, elabora un relato fragmentado que circula entre la ficción y el documental. Los rubios es una reflexión sobre las posibilidades de representación, la reconstrucción de un vacío, la búsqueda de la propia identidad y la elaboración de un duelo a través del cine.

ANNEX

THE QARQ (Quote, Argument, Relation, Question) MODEL

Students introducing the texts and the films for the debate will be invited to:

Quote – Cite a sentence or two from each text (and/or from the films) which reflects the author(s)' main argument(s).

Argument – synoptically present author's argument in your own language. If relevant, mention which thesis the author is defending and which one he/she is arguing against.

Relation – When possible, connect the argument of the text under discussion with those of the same sessions or texts previously discussed. Show how author's argument supports or undermines argument of other authors. Also when pertinent, connect the argument of the texts with the discourse/analysis provided in the film.

Question –frame a question about the position or consistency of the argument: a) e.g., an issue which the author is silent about, and why this silence, and b) question about a dimension in the text that may not be amply addressed. Ideally, question should be internal to the text.
